

You are here: > Home > News > Residents > Encore une fois! The French Market is on its way back

An opportunity to sample all things French is on the way as Cathedral Square gears up to hosting the increasingly popular French Market.

Thursday 8 to Sunday 11 March sees the French Market return to the city centre, offering a host of culinary and other delights from across the channel.

The market is coordinated by the company French at Home whose traders have been delivering their delicacies to the UK since 1994.

Mostly from the Normandy area, the stalls offer local and regional cheeses, freshly baked bread, patisserie, olives and dried fruits alongside handbags, jewellery, Provençal soaps and more.

